I think we can wait and not include in the Musings.

Thank you, Tom. Alex & Rick, how should we communicate this information to OCSPP staff? It could sensibly come from OPS because it relates to Holidays, Time & Attendance. Or it could come from Rick as the Acting DAA.

For today's Musings, I could say:

Inauguration Day: Inauguration Day falls on Wednesday, January 20, 2021. By statute, this date is a holiday for Federal employees whose official work station is within the "Inauguration Day area" (defined in law as the District of Columbia, Montgomery and Prince George's Counties in Maryland, Arlington and Fairfax Counties in Virginia, and the cities of Alexandria, Fairfax and Falls Church in Virginia). This holiday applies to employees performing episodic telework as a result of COVID-19. More details are forthcoming.

I took this from the communique Tom sent. Note that I refer to episodic telework (because it appears that employees on fulltime telework are not eligible). And I say more details are coming. Thoughts?
